THURSDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 1, 1917.

THE TICKET

SHERIFF—Wesley P. Norris, of Clearfield Borough.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY—John C. Arnold, of DuBois.

JURY COMMISSIONER—Carl Anderson, Cooper Twp.

CORONER—Dr. J. I. Pollum, DuBois

Take this tip from father: Wesley P, Norris is a winner next Tuesday by at least 1000 majority.

Sick Pentz sounds very much like six pence.

Every Republican in Clearfield should attend the meeting in the Arbitration Room of the Court House tonight.

According to latest rumors there will be no married men sent to Camp Lee in the next contingent. There is no confirmation of this as yet, however

Some fellows who are running for office would be in the army today were it not for the fact that there was no chance of winning a commission as Major.

One of the strong points in the address given at the High School the other night was Dr. Ott's advice to merchants to give their advertising to newspapers who are always working for the advancement of their city and stay away from the unsightly bill boards, posters and hand bills.

Today and tomorrow every woman and girl over sixteen should register. This is your day ladies. Do your whole duty. See the article on the back page of this issue then wend your way to the home of Mrs. Warren Partridge on West Front street where your name will be registered.

Perhaps this war is going to be a blessing in disguise. Already we observe a saner method of living by many people. At this early date we see men and women casting aside the superfluities of life, the make-believe and the shams; facing their fellow creatures on a plane of social equality. Men and women who gave not a thought to the welfare of others except through the ordinary channels of charity have put on the harness, so to speak, and are working night and day with no other purpose than that they shall not be called slackers in their duty. War has already stripped men's souls and exposed them to the bright light of human observation and today we see thousands of men, real men, where a few months ago we saw only outward appearances. These people have learned the great lesson of helping others. The have experienced the joy it carries with it and they have, in addition, learned to know their neighbors and other residents of the community outside their own select social circle. The odd part of it is that they have found interesting people beyond the pale of their narrow path of life there before they thought there was only the ordinary beings.

Not As Expected

It didn't come out as I expected, is a remark familiar to all of us.

There are few business propositions that do give the results we expect, yet we keep on trusting other people with the investment of our money when statistics show that the average business proposition cannot compare with money in the bank at compound interest.

This bank invites your account.

To The Voters of Clearfield County:--

The issues of the District Attorney fight are too well known to be affected by the statement of any candidate.

And whether the present District Attorney is entitled to two terms does not rest on the records of the District Attorneys for the past forty years, but on the record of the office holder running for re-election.

I have lived in Duois for a quarter of a century. During that time I have tried to make my word good, and to be square.

If I am elected District Attorney I give my word:—

That I will not be subservient to, or in any degree controlled by any man or men, or any clique, faction or organization.

That I go into office unpledged on any matter, or upon the conduct of the duties of that office.

That I, myself, will be District Attorney. That I will not at the tax payers' expense employ lawyers to do the work for which I am paid, nor will I have Assistant District Attorneys appointed either by the case or by the year.

That my election to the office of District Attorney shall constitute a contract between me and the people, by the terms of which the District Attorney is bound to act for the common good of all, and to do himself the work for which he is paid. No extra expense should, or will be put upon the other party to the contract without its consent. To place upon the people such extra expense is for the District Attorney to raise his own salary, already generously fixed at $3023.00 per year. In the past four years this raise of salary has amounted to over $1200.00 each year, or two-fifths of the yearly salary fixed by law. If the law intended the yearly salary to be two-fifths larger, the Act of Assembly would so provide.

If a farmer takes a horse to be shod he expects to pay the blacksmith to do the job. He should not have to pay several more blacksmiths called in to help out. The man who takes the job should see it through.

In conclusion I want to say that I have conducted my campaign in a manner that is both clean and fair. And that no printed or spoken word of mine has injected personalities therein, nor savored of throwing mud.

(Signed) JOHN C. ARNOLD.

MIKE WAS IN THE RUNNING

Osceola Mills, Oct. 31.—In speaking of the athletic contests at Camp Meade, the Philadelphia Public Ledger of Oct. 28th, had the following to say of a Clearfield county boy:—

"M. J. Buckeye, who finished sixth, is a member of the Twenty-third Engineers, from Osceola Mills, Clearfield county, Pa. He was running the first four when he was attacked by indigestion. He was forced to stop until he recovered and despite the enforced lout finished sixth und in excellent time.

"The event was the premier contest at Camp Meade, and was a two and a half mile cross country run. The start was from a stage erected near the P block and was witnessed by General and Mrs. Kuhn and many junior officers. On hundred and five starters got away with the word and of this number ninety-five crossed the finish."

Mike, as he is familiarly known among his friends here, was working at Philadelphia when he joined the colors.

OBITUARY

Wayne Leroy Anderson, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Hays Anderson was called to the mansions above on Thursday, Oct. 11, 1917, aged 7 years, 11 months and 8 days, after an illness of six weeks duration. He was first afflicted with diphtheria and later a complication of diseases, which caused his death. His absence is deeply felt in the home, among his playmates and all who knew him, as he was a very bright boy, also had many manly principles about him for a child of his age.

He leaves to mourn his death a grief-stricken father and mother and two brothers, Herman and Earnest.

The many friends and neighbors join in sympathy with the bereaved parents in this hour of sorrow.

Funeral services were conducted at the home on Saturday afternoon by Rev. J. J. Resh, of the West Side M. E. church. Interment in Mt. Joy cemetery.

Cottonseed Meal

I will unload a car of cotton seed meal on the N. Y. C. siding on Friday and Saturday of this week.

Cold Weather Doesn't Affect Atlantic Polarine

ORDINARY engine-oils just naturally thicken and gum in cold weather. This slows up your motor, often reducing the gasoline-mileage as much as five miles to the gallon. There is one sure way to overcome this gasoline wastage, and that is:

Use Atlantic Polarine religiously in your crank-case—that, and nothing else. For Atlantic Polarine is the yearound lubricating oil that flows freely at zero and all other temperatures. It is of just the right body to leave a film of oil between all moving parts, with an absolute minimum of carbon-deposit.

Remember—use Atlantic Polarine exclusively in your crank-case, especially all through the Fall and Winter months. It is the scientific motor-oil for low temperatures—for all cars and conditions. Atlantic Polarine is one of the Big Four Atlantic Motor Oils, the lubricants that "Keep Upkeep DOWN."

NEWS OF THE CAMPS

WERE NOT HUNTING BEAR

Al Dunlap, care taker at Kennedy Park Game reserve, who it will be remembered lost a yard of bacon by the bear route, was out last week after the purloiner of his high priced provender. Al jumped the bear on the head of Stoney run and banged him around through the thickets in that section all day. During one of his circles the bear ran right into J. Fred Weaver and his friend John Provost, of Pittsburgh, who were hunting pheasants from the Gordon camp. The bear jumped out of the brush not over fifty feet from the hunters, and it was a close question, judging from the way each side beat it out of that vicinity, which was the worst scared. "Jeff," being native to these wilds, had a little advantage over his city pal in the get-away but after the first hundred yards it was neck and neck until the Penfield road was reached. Even after hitting the main traveled pike the hunters were so upset and kept jumping around to look behind them so much that they got twisted in their sense of direction and forgot for the time being which was right and which left, with the result that instead of turning to the left as they should have done they took the right hand road beyond the State house and after walking four miles due north ran across Hen Mabie making ties near the Panther rocks, and after some persuasion were induced to retrace their steps back to camp and the territory where the bear was cavorting.

When they got back to camp and told their story Zerfoss asked them why they didnt shoot the gol darn thing, "Jeff" said he never thought of that and Provost chimed in with the information that they were not hunting bear.

CROSS COUNTRY HUNTER

Fred R. Dunworth, of Butler, was in town Tuesday on his way to visit his parents at Grampian. Dunworth was togged out in hunting regalia and said he had hunted through the woods and fields between Butler and Clearfield. He said he killed a bear in Butler county shortly after starting and would remain at Grampian and take a chance in the deer woods when the season comes in.

DEER SURE ARE PLENTY

There are so many deer in this section that the woods won't hold them all, and in consequence two fine specimens slopped over into town on Tuesday afternoon. A spike buck tramped around in Frank Thompson's tomato patch on Park street while a big five point buck was seen on the Paradise road a short distance beyond the hospital.

CAUGHT BY GAME WARDEN

AS THE LAW VIOLATED?

One of th knottiest knots or series of knots ever tied in the Pennsylvania game laws since the game law was placed upon the statute books now confronts the proper athorities. We are satisfied of the truth of the foregoing sentence and in order to get the opinions of our hunter friends on the subject we herewith give you the facts in the case, as we deduced them after careful investigation.

W. J. Stewart, better known as "Plugger," is the engineman of the pasenger train which plys daily between Dimeling station and Irvona. On Thursday evening, October 19th as Mr. Stewart's train was nearing Pott's run a red fox was noticed by the keen-eyed engineer jump out of the underbrush adjoining the right of way with a fowl of some kind dangling from its mouth. "Old Plugger" saw that sly Reynard was aiming to attempt to cross the track ahead of the train, and as he believed the object dangling from his mouth from its appearance was a chicken stolen from a Knox township farmer, he decided that if possible he would nip the four-legged thief red-handed at his nefarious work by running him down.

With a wrench at the throttle he turned on the power and the huge iron horse responded to the touch with an added burst of speed. The increase was too much for the fox's judgment and handicapped as he was by the dangling burden he was just able to haly way clear the outside rail when the cow-catcher caught him and rolling him to the rail passed him along until the pony wheel ended his earthly career by deftly separating his back bone just a bit south of his midriff.

The encounter happened just below the Potts Run station and when the train stopped at the station "Plugger" sent the fireman back to retrieve the game. Game is right, too, because when the fireman arrived at the scene he found the front end of the fox lying in the ditch while his jaws were firmly fastened in the death grip about the neck of a fine big cock pheasant, which had evidently just been captured by the fox before he attempted to cross the track and was still fluttering in its death throes when picked up.

"Plugger" blieves in Hooverism and promptly commandeered the peculiarly got pheasant and taking out his pocket knife deftly snipped its head off. He took it with him to Irvona and had Landlord McCrossin prepare same for his supper.

Now comes the complications. The pheasant was captured on the day before the bird-season came in, and it was not not only unlawful to kill the pheasant on that day, but "Plugger" was also without a hunter's license. The law also states that it is unlawful to have in one's possession any game taken before the season opens, and there you are. There is a series of three possible violations of the law entailing penalties amounting to $75, while it is also contended that Landlord McCrossin is guilty also of violating the law in having the bird in his possession and further for serving it at his table, but this latter proposition is doubtful, as the law says the game must be sold to commit a proper violation of the law. When this point was put up to him in one of the many discussions since that time, Plugger said he could save that $25 for his friend the landlord by failing to pay his board for October, but even that is doubtful relief, with board at $30 per month.

It sure is a complicated case and is causing the village wiseacres at Irvona a great deal of worry and conversation, while Constable Allen Straw who stands ready to arrest the man who hunts with an engine, when Judge Green issues the warrant, has put the case with all its ramifications up to Secretary Kalbfus and the State Game Commission and all hands now await a proper adjustment.

Now, is the man, the engine or the fox responsible for killing this pheasant out of season, and if Plugger is guilty could he be fined for hunting without a license? It is beyond us. We quit.

Has He Registered YOUR Name For Service?

Women of Pennsylvania, have you seen it?—the shadow that dims the sun.

Listen! The air seems vibrant as if stirred by distant thunder.

A tempest is upon us—a storm worse than any America has known, and its danger signals are far-flung.

The storm has crept in from Transatlantic shores. The air, too, was surcharged there—made vibrant by the gun-peals of human hate. Take heed! There is a warning for you in these far-flung signals. If you have not read it, read now.

War—merciless war—has been unleashed to wreak its fury upon you and yours.

The extent to which that fury will ravage America depends very largely upon the part the women of America decide to take in the war.

If you and every other woman capable of giving some useful service will promptly give that service so that America may strike with crushing effect, then the dread of what the war will bring need not be all upon this side of the Atlantic.

Therefore, it remains for you—the women of Pennsylvania and of the nation—to make a momentous decision.

Will you stand back now, supinely claiming exemption from unusual effort upon the plea of sex?

Or will you come forward to work in some useful capacity that will give the fighting men of your country the support they need to win the war?

That is what is being asked of you and of every other woman of working age in Pennsylvania. Your decision will mean much to your state and to your country. It may mean even more to you.

Remember: The worst trials that defeat brings to a conquered people invariably are the horrors experienced by its women. Keep stricken Belgium and outraged France before you—then decide that you will do your utmost to make defeat impossible for America.

Every Woman Needed.

If you have any doubt about the help of every woman being needed now consider these facts:

One million men in Pennsylvania alone have been holding themselves subject to a call to the colors since Registration day, June 5, last. One hundred thousand recruits—the pick of the state's manhood—have already been taken from productive employment for army and navy service. Additional thousands are being drafted with machine-like precision. Still more thousands have been drafted from ordinary into war employments.

Every man called leaves another gap in the army of production. Every man drawn means, also, that four new workers must be found to produce the things that will give him fighting efficiency.

With industry losing its workmen and, on the other hand, being required to produce a greater output than ever it is apparent that new labor sources must be tapped or disaster may result.

You women who have never been required to earn your living—and there are some hundreds of thousands of you—constitute the most important undeveloped labor reserve in Pennsylvania. If you will from patriotic inspiration accept some useful work, even though you do not need to earn money, you will help amazingly to solve a labor crisis which, with the country at war, ranks as a positive menace.

How to Find Work.

To assist you in finding the job you are willing to fill as a patriotic duty—to train you for the job if necessary—a registration of women is now being conducted under State and Federal supervision. The Pennsylvania Women's Committee of the Council of National Defense and the Civilian Service Department of the Pennsylvania Committee of Public Safety have it in charge.

It is a registration that is determining the complete "woman-power" of the state. It is showing with exactness the total number of women, trained and untrained, of working age and it is classifying them according to their capacity for work. The purpose is to inform the government—the United States Department of Labor—of how far it may rely upon women's energy as a productive resource.

Even the women who are unable to take regular positions, but who can accept work at home are being listed. The plan has the support of President Wilson and is commended by Governor Brumbaugh, who, by official proclamation, fixed November 1 and 2 as special registration days.

In conducting the registration, no interference with existing labor situations or with useful industries is permitted. While workers as well as non-workers are being listed, trained workers are not being solicited to change employers or employment. In fact, established industries will be assisted. Part of the plan is to place new workers at jobs in their home sections and thus encourage and speed up useful, established production.

Signing-Up is Easy.

Registration, too, has been made easy. Every organized group of women in the State is taking names. County Committees of Public Safety Federated Clubs, Suffrage Associations and Women's Christian Temperance Unions anywhere will sign you up.

And now that you have learned of the dire need of women's service in this world crisis, it is for you—the women of the state—to make your registration a roll of honor for Pennsylvania.

With the future of all civilization, with human liberty itself in imminent peril the call from the "Front" is for "workers, more workers, and still more workers."

Work will win the war.

Let the women of Pennsylvania by their actions say, "WE WILL NOT SHIRK."

FIVE GAME PRESERVES MAY SOON BE LOCATED

Five of the eight new state game preserves being considered by the state's game authorities may be located in the western part of the state.

The state game preserves are a great source of game for surrounding country and the state now has authority to lease land for such preserves. The only requirement is that it shall be of sufficient size and be isolated so that game may be free at all times. The preserves are closed at all seasons of the year.

The plan is to add eight to the twenty now in existence. About half of these preserves have been set out in the last two or three years and the new ones have been chiefly in northern counties. Western sportsmen have noticed the success attending the preserve in the Ligonier region and have been asking for similar establishments. The places under soneideration are tracts of thousands of acres in Forest, Warren, Somerset, Blair and Cambria counties.

The cost of maintenance of a game preserve, after the installation charges, including wiring and posting of notices, is only $700 a year.

SIGNALS FOR HUNTERS

Signals for deer and other hunters who are in trouble have been prepared by T. B. Wyman, secretary of the Northern Forest Protective association. Large placards have been placed in the woods by Mr. Wyman in order to keep the signals ever before the minds of hunters. They might well be adopted by Clearfield county hunters and thus establish a uniform system.

Here are the signals:

Help—Four shots in quick succession; as 0000.

Injured—Shot, pause, two shots, pause, shot; as 0-00-0.

Man Found—One shot, pause, three quick shots; as 0-000.

Call Heard—Two quick shots, pause, two quick shots; as 00-00.

SUES P. R. R. FOR DAMAGES

A. R. Chase, Esq., on behalf of C. F. and J. W. Hind, entered suit in the Prothonotary's office this morning against the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

The statement filed recites the fact that the plaintiffs own a tract of eighteen acres of timber land in Newburg borough. That on March 31st, 1917, sparks from a locomotive of the defendant company started a fire and burned over the woods entailing a loss of $800.

On April 16, 1917, a second fire was started by the same means and this time destroyed a stump fence which was valued at $200, and they will ask a jury at next term of court to find in their favor to the extent of $1000.

WHAT YOU O— Is Under-Insured Against Hun[illegible]e

Unless you have increased your fire insurance to cover the present high cost of your property

—$1.50 to $2.50 now buys no more than $1.00 did in 1914.

—To replace your furniture—your rugs—carpets—textiles, you would pay many times more than what they cost.

—Your home, your buildings, have advanced in replacement value.

—Machinery is now higher in cost.

—Fixtures have gone up.

—Merchandise has increased in worth.

You Are Worth More, But Are Less Protected

Suggestion:—Get out your fire insurance policies today, and write or telephone one of these insurance agents for information that will surely benefit you.

Don't gamble against fire. Over 300 times this year Clearfield's fire engines will madly "clang! clang!" down the streets in answer to alarms. Over 300 times next year, over 300 times the next year—and every year.

Insure on 1917 valuations. Don't wait until your insurance expires. The risk is too great. Fire insurance companies will pay you "the actual cash value at the time when such loss shall happen"—the then existing market for replacement value—if you will properly insure.

Telephone, call upon, write or mail the coupon to your insurance agent—now! His address is on your policy. Hundreds of those who today read this paper will suffer by fire sooner or later. You stand no better chance than the next person. Properly protect yourself at once.

Eighteenth Regiment Soldiers Buy Bonds

Captain Ayres Recovering From Sick Spell

We received a card today from Captain George L. Ayres, commander of Co. I., of the old Enghteenth Pennsylvania National Guards, which has since been transferred to the 111th U. S. Infantry, and which is now located at Augusta, George.

Capt. Ayres was located in Clearfield last summer as acting Major of the 18th while that regiment was doing guard duty in this region and his many local friends will be pleased to know that he has fully recovered from a severe attack of bronchitis and was discharged from the base hospital Friday last.

A great fight was put up by the friends of the 18th when an order was issued directing that this famous old regiment should be merged with other troops into one of the new U. S. Army regiments. The discussion incident thereto gave the friends of the 18th the opportunity of showing that it was one of the very best regiments in the guard and deserved if any regiment did, to retain its individuality. Accordingly an investigation was ordered and the 18th had no trouble in demonstrating to the "powers that be" their quality and right to retain their organization intact with the result that the order was changed and the Third Regiment of Philadelphia was sacrificed on the altar of the new army regulations.

This recognition of their just claims was naturally very pleasing to the officers and men and in turn to their friends back home.

There are some thirty-five or forty Clearfield county boys in the 18th and we are more than pleased to be able to state that the officers and men of the regiment subscribed for $257,000 worth of Liberty Loan Bonds, Captain Ayres' Co. I taking $18,000 of that amount.

The Kaiser has no settled headquarters. Since the outbreak of the war he has kept continually on the move, rarely staying more than a week at any place, and often only a day. But the place where he may chance to be is the official German headquarters.

ATTORNEY PENTZ SHOULDERS THE BURDEN

Issues Statement in Order To Bolster Up Waning Strength Of Welch Candidacy

THE REAL FACTS IN THE CASE

The following advertisement appeared in the DuBois Daily Express yesterday and no doubt was paid for out of the "general fund" we have heard so much about. We reproduce it here entirely without cost to the advertiser. The advertisement is headed

W. C. PENTZ, ESQ., DENYS PROGRESS FALSEHOOD

To the Clearfield Progress,
Clearfield, Pa.

In a recent publication you referred to the expenditures of the office of the District Attorney of Clearfield County and in connection therewith you used my name, without first consulting me and without my knowledge or consent.

You have misstated a fact in your publicaton. The cases referred to were not disposed of against my protest. Mr. Welch and myself had a full consultation in regard to these matters, and in view of the fact that the parties involved agreed to discontinue their method of doing business in Clearfield County, and paying a substantial fine, we believe that the ends of justice were met, and the propositon was submitted to the Court with a full and clear explanation of the matter and in open court and in the presence of everybody who wanted to be present the action was taken in the cases with the approval of the Court.

I assumed full responsibility in the matter with Mr. Welch. The question of my fee was submitted to the Court and was fixed by him, under the Act of Assembly providing for the appointment of assistant District Attorneys.

Yours respectfully,
W. C. PENTZ,

The above letter was handed to the Clearfield Progress one week ago, but up to this time has not been published. This is in accordance with its whole policy of unfairness, a policy of falsehood and misrepresentation.

The Editor of The Progress states, in the presence of a third party that the reason The Progress was against me was because a Democratic paper criticised the County Commissioners.

WALTER WELCH.

Clearfield, Pa., October 29th, 1917.

It is true that the above letter was handed to The Progress over a week ago but it was not published for the reason that we could not get in touch with our informant on the matter until yesterday afternoon. Our informant yesterday advised us that he was sure of his grounds and we intended to publish the letter today and state this fact.

District Attorney Welch or his campaign managers cannot point to one falsehood in connection with this campaign on the part of The Progress. Neither can they complain of unfairness or misrepresentation because unfairness and misrepresentation could not be practiced without falsehood.

Of course Mr. Pentz can now say that he assumed full responsibility with Mr. Welch in the settlement of the Mead case. As assistant District Attorney, bought and paid for, he could not do otherwise. The fact remains, however, that he protested the method of settlement. He may have withdrawn his protests before the settlement was made but it was not satisfactory to him at the outset.

The editor of The Progress did not make the statement ascribed to him by District Attorney Welch. Criticism of the County Commissioners by The Republican was discussed by us but not as the District Attorney states. He must have inferred that to be the reason. Let it be said here that the County Commissioners, including their Chief Clerk, must stand on their own legs so far as The Progress is concerned. We have never withdrawn any of the criticisms we have made on their conduct in office. They owe us nothing and we owe them nothing. It is a notable fact that our readers have seen criticisms of the County Commissioners in The Progress but we defy any reader of The Republican to find any criticism or even news of the District Attorney's office in that publication. So far as The Republican is concerned the business of the District Attorney's office is sealed tighter than the can of berries in your cellar.

The day after The Progress printed the itemized statement of expenses incurred by District Attorney Welch he visited us in our office and charged us with being unfair to him. We replied that we printed only facts as taken from the records and no one could find any objection to that method. He still maintained that we were not treating him right and in order to make our position clear to him we told him that he must understand to start with that we were opposed politically and in addition to that we were for Arnold on general principles and felt that we owed nothing to him. Further than that we told Mr. Welch that we did not think that we could be said to be unfair in as much as we had printed only figures and facts and his campaign organ had for several months been conducting a most malicious form of campaign against the County Commissioners. We cited this only to show a contrast between policy and methods. Presumably it was from this conversation that Mr. Welch came to his conclusions.

The Progress is not given to mud slinging. All we need to say is that we are against Mr Welch because we are for things that Mr. Arnold stands for as enumerated on page two of this issue.

Italians Apparently Recovering Posture

Austro-German Pressure Relaxing In Encouraging Report Today

London, Nov. 1—There was marked relaxation of the Austro-German pressure on the center of General Cadorna's line today according to late Rome dispatches. The Italian retreat has resolved itself into an orderly movement dispatches declared.

There were evidences of a close-down of Italian official news; an indication that all efforts are being made by the Italian commander in chief to keep the enemy guessing. It was certain, however, that the big battle of the Tagliamento was swaying into form. Enemy artillery within rangs of the Tagliamento was active.

London, Nov. 1.—Austro-German forces on the Tagliamento River, the defense line of General Cadorna, have been checked in their forward advance, according to the interpretation placed upon the Berlin official statement. Berlin claims to have attacked on the eastern bank defensive of the River at Tignana and Codroika but as London reads in between the lines General Cadorna has succeeded in holding the defense on the river bank. The greatest apprehension was aroused in London, however, over the Berlin claims that 60,000 soldiers in the sector where General Cadorna's third army have been in the vice-like grip of General Mackensen's army at Edine had laid down their arms.

London, Nov. 1—The black roll is coming, Premier Lloyd George telegraphed Italian Premier Orlando today. It is a source of satisfaction the way the Italian forces have been holding back the invaders. The friendship of the British and Italian nations will be cemented by the cooperation of our armies.

U. S. STEEL DROPS WHEN MANY SELL

New York, Nov. 1—Short selling of United States Steel due to indiscriminate advices sent out all over the county resulted in a drop to 96 in two hours Stock Exchange officials declared. The net loss was 4 3-4.

The Italian predicament and the report that Congress will take up another tax bill the next session are reasons for the bad behavior of the market. Rail stock was a heavy loser in the first half hour.

TRANSPORT FINLAND TORPEDOED ON RETURN TRIP TO UNITED STATES BUT NO LIVES LOST

Washingotn, Nov. 1—The American transport Finland was torpedoed in foreign waters homeward bound Secretary of the Navy Daniels announced today. There was no loss of life and the transport returned to the port under her own steam. The ship was slightly damaged. The Finland is the second transport to be attacked while returning from somewhere in Europe. The dispatch to the Navy department concerning the Finland stated that no submarine was seen as was the case with the Antilles. Whether the Germans are using a new system of hiding when attacking transports is a question puzzling navy authorities.

Fraternity Club Holds Annual Reception

Served Real War Time Lunch After Excellent Musical Programme

The members of the Fraternity Club, their wives and guests enjoyed a very pleasant evening last night in the handsome rooms in the Keystone Building. The occasion was the annual Hallowe'en Banquet, but on account of the war the usual sumptuous banquet was dispensed with and a real war time lunch consisting of small sandwiches and coffee was served.

The musical program provided by the Reeves-Paterson-Smith Concert Company and the Masonic Male quartette composed of Messrs. James, Taylor, Van Osten and Nightingale more than repaid for the loss of the customary turkey dinner and all departed with lighter minds than they would have had had there been a real banquet.

A feature of the evening was the singing of a scene from Madame Butterfly by the Concert Company in full costume. A novelty was added by the singing of The Star Spangled Banner and the illumination of a handsome flag by a huge search light.

Americans To Join In Allies Conference

President Has Selected Men Who Will Represent This Nation

Washington, Nov. 1—President Wilson has selected the American commission to the great Allied Conference to Paris, November 15. The first in which this government will officially participate. The names will be announced soon. The work has been outlined. The German drive against Italy has demonstrated perhaps more than any other thing in the war the need of the heartiest co operation between the government's linked against the Holenzollernism Foremost among the question at the conference will be the military and economic conditions of Russia and Italy.

ANOTHER LOAN TO ENGLAND

Washington, Nov. 1—The United States extended its greatest single credit of the war to any of its allies when it increased Great Britain's credit by $435,000,000 today. This sum will be drawn upon by England between now and January 1, 1918. It brings England's war credit with this country to $1,860,000,000 and the total loan to the allies of $3,566,400,000.

Mrs. Sophia Young of Locust street, received word today of the safe arrival "over there" of her son William, who is attached to the U. S. aerial service. Sergeant Young sailed for France some two weeks ago.

CROWDED HOUSE GREETS WEST SIDE MUSIC

Excellent Program Provided By Sunday School Orchestra Of West Side M. E. Church

PROF. ROCKWELL IS LEADER

The West Side M. E. church was crowded to the doors last evening, the banner crowd of the season being out to hear the pleasing Hallowe'en music rendered arranged for and given under the auspices of the Sunday School Orchestra.

The West Side congregation possesses some of the very best local talent and these artists augmented by a number of others from the different churches or congregations prepared and presented a program that was a great credit to all concerned.

The program was varied throughout and possessed many pleasing and distinctly artistic features.

The numbers by the orchestra under the direction of Prof. Rockwell were splendid.

Every member was deserving of mention while the cornet solo of Mr. Hugh McKendrick, the vocal solo by Clara Ross and the male quartett selections received most vociferous encores.

Little Miss Myrtle Mitchell is also deserving of special mention for the talent she displayed.

The decorations were magnificent and reflect great credit on Messrs. Fullerton and Flaharty, who laid themselves out to "startle the natives," and who did so with a vengeance.

The closing number "The Star Spangled Banner" with unique and telling electrical effects, brought down the house and was cheered to the echo.

The Kentucky Gatling Gun Here Tomorrow

Noted Temperance Worker From South to Speak at the Court House

In these days of rum "strafing" it does not create much of a ripple in the waters of life when a lecturer or speaker comes along to tell us of its iniquities. A few years ago when a temperance lecturer was advertised we all went to hear what he would say but the idea of the wrongs of the liqor traffic have been told about so often that the young people of the nation are beginning to think for themselves about it and take care of it in the light of their understanding. On the other hand a real red blooded temperance advocate will go to hear a temperance orator any time, any place and that is why the temperance cause has advanced to its present stage.

Rev. L. L. Pickett, known as "The Kentucky Gattling Gun," will speak on "The Booze Devil" at the Court House tomorrow night at eight o'clock. Rev. Pickett is one of the noted temperance orators of the South and has been a leading figure in making the sotuh dry. Everybody is invited to turn out to hear him. No admission.

Tumulty Denies He Has Political Aspirations

Will Not be a Candidate For U. S. Senate From New Jersey

Washington, Nov. 1—Secretary Tumulty has no political aspirations. From his desk in the White House today the genial secretary to the President denied reports that he would be a candidate for the United States Senate from New Jersey. Owing to the illness of Senator Hughes many good friends of Secretary Tumulty believe he may be persuaded to become a candidate for the United States Senate to succeed Hughes.

RED CROSS NOTES

The boys and girls of St Francis Catholic school have turned in $62.50 to the Red Cross Christmas packet committee, which money they made at two euchres held two consecutive nights last week.

This will be a big help to the committee and the boys and girls can be proud of their efforts.

The Mahaffey Branch of the Clearfield chapter of Red Cross have notified the comittee that they will bear the expense of fifty of the Christmas boxes for the soldiers and sailors.

DISPATCHED

Died—at Washington, D. C., at 12.01 this morning, John Barleycorn. The deceased was well and unfavorably known all over the world until people began to waken up some ten or twelve years ago. Since that time he has been more or less under the weather and during the last two or three years terrible inroads have been made on his physical well being in every country under the sun.

His demise at the nation's capital has long been looked for and now that the final summons has been answered we feel safe in saying that the people of Washington can be likened to that West Virginian mountaineer who, when asked what the complaint was when he announced the sudden taking off of the "neighborhood pest," remarked, "there wan't no complaint, everybody's satisfied."

Barleycorn's few remaining friends throughout Pennsylvania and a few other corrupt and contented places are too mad to weep and mourn properly but that will add no fuel to John's final frying pan, he has already caused the shedding of more tears than there are drops of water in the ocean and the mourning incident thereto will take an eternity almost to forget.

Barleycorn is gone and his passing out was marked by the singing of the final round of those old familiar ditties "Hail, Hail," and "How Dry I Am," and am going to be, forever more and everywhere soon.

WILL BE CALLED SOON

According to Chief Clerk John M. Bain of the local exemption board there is no likelihood of a call being issued to the final contingent of Camp Lee soldiers from District No. 1 before next week and it is possible the men will not leave until the week following

Mr. Bain will visit Erie today or tomorrow for the purpose of having the District Board take up and pass upon all pending claims for exemption in order that the list may be completed and all men selected in their turn before those examined following the last call are ordered for service.

Teuton "Baby Killers" Attack From All Directions But Only Three Reach Heart of London

FEW CASUALTIES REPORTED

The greatest aerial battle of the war over London and surrounding counties was staged under the bright moon last night according to an official statement today.

"Three German aeroplanes penetrated the heart of London," the French declared. Bombs were dropped on the southeast and southwest. About thirty British machines fought the invaders. Casualties were light considering the number of machines and the character of the raid. Seven groups of German raiders tried to reach London by fighting their way along the rivers... Only three planes obscured by the clouds penetrated the heart of London. British anti-aircraft guns drove them back.

The London official statement did not give the number of German machines in each group. On other occasions, however, the Germans have been accustomed to fly in groups of five to ten machines. This would mean that the air army which Germany sent out on its latest baby killing exploitation may have numbered 35 to 70 machines.

The casualties in the air raid included eight killed and 21 injured according to an official statement this afternoon. The casualties were in the whole district from the coast to London. Everywhere the material damage was slight the official statement said. Our machines returned safely.

THE TICKET

SHERIFF—Wesley P. Norris, of Clearfield Borough.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY—John C. Arnold, of DuBois.

JURY COMMISSIONER—Carl Anderson, Cooper Twp.

CORONER—Dr. J. I. Pollum, DuBois

Take this tip from father: Wesley P, Norris is a winner next Tuesday by at least 1000 majority.

Sick Pentz sounds very much like six pence.

Every Republican in Clearfield should attend the meeting in the Arbitration Room of the Court House tonight.

According to latest rumors there will be no married men sent to Camp Lee in the next contingent. There is no confirmation of this as yet, however

Some fellows who are running for office would be in the army today were it not for the fact that there was no chance of winning a commission as Major.

One of the strong points in the address given at the High School the other night was Dr. Ott's advice to merchants to give their advertising to newspapers who are always working for the advancement of their city and stay away from the unsightly bill boards, posters and hand bills.

Today and tomorrow every woman and girl over sixteen should register. This is your day ladies. Do your whole duty. See the article on the back page of this issue then wend your way to the home of Mrs. Warren Partridge on West Front street where your name will be registered.

Perhaps this war is going to be a blessing in disguise. Already we observe a saner method of living by many people. At this early date we see men and women casting aside the superfluities of life, the make-believe and the shams; facing their fellow creatures on a plane of social equality. Men and women who gave not a thought to the welfare of others except through the ordinary channels of charity have put on the harness, so to speak, and are working night and day with no other purpose than that they shall not be called slackers in their duty. War has already stripped men's souls and exposed them to the bright light of human observation and today we see thousands of men, real men, where a few months ago we saw only outward appearances. These people have learned the great lesson of helping others. The have experienced the joy it carries with it and they have, in addition, learned to know their neighbors and other residents of the community outside their own select social circle. The odd part of it is that they have found interesting people beyond the pale of their narrow path of life there before they thought there was only the ordinary beings.

To The Voters of Clearfield County:--

The issues of the District Attorney fight are too well known to be affected by the statement of any candidate.

And whether the present District Attorney is entitled to two terms does not rest on the records of the District Attorneys for the past forty years, but on the record of the office holder running for re-election.

I have lived in DuBois for a quarter of a century. During that time I have tried to make my word good, and to be square.

If I am elected District Attorney I give my word:—

That I will not be subservient to, or in any degree controlled by any man or men, or any clique, faction or organization.

That I go into office unpledged on any matter, or upon the conduct of the duties of that office.

That I, myself, will be District Attorney. That I will not at the tax payers' expense employ lawyers to do the work for which I am paid, nor will I have Assistant District Attorneys appointed either by the case or by the year.

That my election to the office of District Attorney shall constitute a contract between me and the people, by the terms of which the District Attorney is bound to act for the common good of all, and to do himself the work for which he is paid. No extra expense should, or will be put upon the other party to the contract without its consent. To place upon the people such extra expense is for the District Attorney to raise his own salary, already generously fixed at $3023.00 per year. In the past four years this raise of salary has amounted to over $1200.00 each year, or two-fifths of the yearly salary fixed by law. If the law intended the yearly salary to be two-fifths larger, the Act of Assembly would so provide.

If a farmer takes a horse to be shod he expects to pay the blacksmith to do the job. He should not have to pay several more blacksmiths called in to help out. The man who takes the job should see it through.

In conclusion I want to say that I have conducted my campaign in a manner that is both clean and fair. And that no printed or spoken word of mine has injected personalities therein, nor savored of throwing mud.

(Signed) JOHN C. ARNOLD.

MIKE WAS IN THE RUNNING

Osceola Mills, Oct. 31.—In speaking of the athletic contests at Camp Meade, the Philadelphia Public Ledger of Oct. 28th, had the following to say of a Clearfield county boy:—

"M. J. Buckeye, who finished sixth, is a member of the Twenty-third Engineers, from Osceola Mills, Clearfield county, Pa. He was running the first four when he was attacked by indigestion. He was forced to stop until he recovered and despite the enforced lout finished sixth und in excellent time.

"The event was the premier contest at Camp Meade, and was a two and a half mile cross country run. The start was from a stage erected near the P block and was witnessed by General and Mrs. Kuhn and many junior officers. On hundred and five starters got away with the word and of this number ninety-five crossed the finish."

Mike, as he is familiarly known among his friends here, was working at Philadelphia when he joined the colors.

OBITUARY

Wayne Leroy Anderson, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Hays Anderson was called to the mansions above on Thursday, Oct. 11, 1917, aged 7 years, 11 months and 8 days, after an illness of six weeks duration. He was first afflicted with diphtheria and later a complication of diseases, which caused his death. His absence is deeply felt in the home, among his playmates and all who knew him, as he was a very bright boy, also had many manly principles about him for a child of his age.

He leaves to mourn his death a grief-stricken father and mother and two brothers, Herman and Earnest.

The many friends and neighbors join in sympathy with the bereaved parents in this hour of sorrow.

Funeral services were conducted at the home on Saturday afternoon by Rev. J. J. Resh, of the West Side M. E. church. Interment in Mt. Joy cemetery.

Cold Weather Doesn't Affect Atlantic Polarine

ORDINARY engine-oils just naturally thicken and gum in cold weather. This slows up your motor, often reducing the gasoline-mileage as much as five miles to the gallon. There is one sure way to overcome this gasoline wastage, and that is:

Use Atlantic Polarine religiously in your crank-case—that, and nothing else. For Atlantic Polarine is the yearound lubricating oil that flows freely at zero and all other temperatures. It is of just the right body to leave a film of oil between all moving parts, with an absolute minimum of carbon-deposit.

Remember—use Atlantic Polarine exclusively in your crank-case, especially all through the Fall and Winter months. It is the scientific motor-oil for low temperatures—for all cars and conditions. Atlantic Polarine is one of the Big Four Atlantic Motor Oils, the lubricants that "Keep Upkeep DOWN."

NEWS OF THE CAMPS

WERE NOT HUNTING BEAR

Al Dunlap, care taker at Kennedy Park Game reserve, who it will be remembered lost a yard of bacon by the bear route, was out last week after the purloiner of his high priced provender. Al jumped the bear on the head of Stoney run and banged him around through the thickets in that section all day. During one of his circles the bear ran right into J. Fred Weaver and his friend John Provost, of Pittsburgh, who were hunting pheasants from the Gordon camp. The bear jumped out of the brush not over fifty feet from the hunters, and it was a close question, judging from the way each side beat it out of that vicinity, which was the worst scared. "Jeff," being native to these wilds, had a little advantage over his city pal in the get-away but after the first hundred yards it was neck and neck until the Penfield road was reached. Even after hitting the main traveled pike the hunters were so upset and kept jumping around to look behind them so much that they got twisted in their sense of direction and forgot for the time being which was right and which left, with the result that instead of turning to the left as they should have done they took the right hand road beyond the State house and after walking four miles due north ran across Hen Mabie making ties near the Panther rocks, and after some persuasion were induced to retrace their steps back to camp and the territory where the bear was cavorting.

When they got back to camp and told their story Zerfoss asked them why they didnt shoot the gol darn thing, "Jeff" said he never thought of that and Provost chimed in with the information that they were not hunting bear.

CROSS COUNTRY HUNTER

Fred R. Dunworth, of Butler, was in town Tuesday on his way to visit his parents at Grampian. Dunworth was togged out in hunting regalia and said he had hunted through the woods and fields between Butler and Clearfield. He said he killed a bear in Butler county shortly after starting and would remain at Grampian and take a chance in the deer woods when the season comes in.

DEER SURE ARE PLENTY

There are so many deer in this section that the woods won't hold them all, and in consequence two fine specimens slopped over into town on Tuesday afternoon. A spike buck tramped around in Frank Thompson's tomato patch on Park street while a big five point buck was seen on the Paradise road a short distance beyond the hospital.

CAUGHT BY GAME WARDEN

AS THE LAW VIOLATED?

One of th knottiest knots or series of knots ever tied in the Pennsylvania game laws since the game law was placed upon the statute books now confronts the proper athorities. We are satisfied of the truth of the foregoing sentence and in order to get the opinions of our hunter friends on the subject we herewith give you the facts in the case, as we deduced them after careful investigation.

W. J. Stewart, better known as "Plugger," is the engineman of the pasenger train which plys daily between Dimeling station and Irvona. On Thursday evening, October 19th as Mr. Stewart's train was nearing Pott's run a red fox was noticed by the keen-eyed engineer jump out of the underbrush adjoining the right of way with a fowl of some kind dangling from its mouth. "Old Plugger" saw that sly Reynard was aiming to attempt to cross the track ahead of the train, and as he believed the object dangling from his mouth from its appearance was a chicken stolen from a Knox township farmer, he decided that if possible he would nip the four-legged thief red-handed at his nefarious work by running him down.

With a wrench at the throttle he turned on the power and the huge iron horse responded to the touch with an added burst of speed. The increase was too much for the fox's judgment and handicapped as he was by the dangling burden he was just able to haly way clear the outside rail when the cow-catcher caught him and rolling him to the rail passed him along until the pony wheel ended his earthly career by deftly separating his back bone just a bit south of his midriff.

The encounter happened just below the Potts Run station and when the train stopped at the station "Plugger" sent the fireman back to retrieve the game. Game is right, too, because when the fireman arrived at the scene he found the front end of the fox lying in the ditch while his jaws were firmly fastened in the death grip about the neck of a fine big cock pheasant, which had evidently just been captured by the fox before he attempted to cross the track and was still fluttering in its death throes when picked up.

"Plugger" blieves in Hooverism and promptly commandeered the peculiarly got pheasant and taking out his pocket knife deftly snipped its head off. He took it with him to Irvona and had Landlord McCrossin prepare same for his supper.

Now comes the complications. The pheasant was captured on the day before the bird-season came in, and it was not not only unlawful to kill the pheasant on that day, but "Plugger" was also without a hunter's license. The law also states that it is unlawful to have in one's possession any game taken before the season opens, and there you are. There is a series of three possible violations of the law entailing penalties amounting to $75, while it is also contended that Landlord McCrossin is guilty also of violating the law in having the bird in his possession and further for serving it at his table, but this latter proposition is doubtful, as the law says the game must be sold to commit a proper violation of the law. When this point was put up to him in one of the many discussions since that time, Plugger said he could save that $25 for his friend the landlord by failing to pay his board for October, but even that is doubtful relief, with board at $30 per month.

It sure is a complicated case and is causing the village wiseacres at Irvona a great deal of worry and conversation, while Constable Allen Straw who stands ready to arrest the man who hunts with an engine, when Judge Green issues the warrant, has put the case with all its ramifications up to Secretary Kalbfus and the State Game Commission and all hands now await a proper adjustment.

Now, is the man, the engine or the fox responsible for killing this pheasant out of season, and if Plugger is guilty could he be fined for hunting without a license? It is beyond us. We quit.

Has He Registered YOUR Name For Service?

Women of Pennsylvania, have you seen it?—the shadow that dims the sun.

Listen! The air seems vibrant as if stirred by distant thunder.

A tempest is upon us—a storm worse than any America has known, and its danger signals are far-flung.

The storm has crept in from Transatlantic shores. The air, too, was surcharged there—made vibrant by the gun-peals of human hate. Take heed! There is a warning for you in these far-flung signals. If you have not read it, read now.

War—merciless war—has been unleashed to wreak its fury upon you and yours.

The extent to which that fury will ravage America depends very largely upon the part the women of America decide to take in the war.

If you and every other woman capable of giving some useful service will promptly give that service so that America may strike with crushing effect, then the dread of what the war will bring need not be all upon this side of the Atlantic.

Therefore, it remains for you—the women of Pennsylvania and of the nation—to make a momentous decision.

Will you stand back now, supinely claiming exemption from unusual effort upon the plea of sex?

Or will you come forward to work in some useful capacity that will give the fighting men of your country the support they need to win the war?

That is what is being asked of you and of every other woman of working age in Pennsylvania. Your decision will mean much to your state and to your country. It may mean even more to you.

Remember: The worst trials that defeat brings to a conquered people invariably are the horrors experienced by its women. Keep stricken Belgium and outraged France before you—then decide that you will do your utmost to make defeat impossible for America.

Every Woman Needed.

If you have any doubt about the help of every woman being needed now consider these facts:

One million men in Pennsylvania alone have been holding themselves subject to a call to the colors since Registration day, June 5, last. One hundred thousand recruits—the pick of the state's manhood—have already been taken from productive employment for army and navy service. Additional thousands are being drafted with machine-like precision. Still more thousands have been drafted from ordinary into war employments.

Every man called leaves another gap in the army of production. Every man drawn means, also, that four new workers must be found to produce the things that will give him fighting efficiency.

With industry losing its workmen and, on the other hand, being required to produce a greater output than ever it is apparent that new labor sources must be tapped or disaster may result.

You women who have never been required to earn your living—and there are some hundreds of thousands of you—constitute the most important undeveloped labor reserve in Pennsylvania. If you will from patriotic inspiration accept some useful work, even though you do not need to earn money, you will help amazingly to solve a labor crisis which, with the country at war, ranks as a positive menace.

How to Find Work.

To assist you in finding the job you are willing to fill as a patriotic duty—to train you for the job if necessary—a registration of women is now being conducted under State and Federal supervision. The Pennsylvania Women's Committee of the Council of National Defense and the Civilian Service Department of the Pennsylvania Committee of Public Safety have it in charge.

It is a registration that is determining the complete "woman-power" of the state. It is showing with exactness the total number of women, trained and untrained, of working age and it is classifying them according to their capacity for work. The purpose is to inform the government—the United States Department of Labor—of how far it may rely upon women's energy as a productive resource.

Even the women who are unable to take regular positions, but who can accept work at home are being listed. The plan has the support of President Wilson and is commended by Governor Brumbaugh, who, by official proclamation, fixed November 1 and 2 as special registration days.

In conducting the registration, no interference with existing labor situations or with useful industries is permitted. While workers as well as non-workers are being listed, trained workers are not being solicited to change employers or employment. In fact, established industries will be assisted. Part of the plan is to place new workers at jobs in their home sections and thus encourage and speed up useful, established production.

Signing-Up is Easy.

Registration, too, has been made easy. Every organized group of women in the State is taking names. County Committees of Public Safety Federated Clubs, Suffrage Associations and Women's Christian Temperance Unions anywhere will sign you up.

And now that you have learned of the dire need of women's service in this world crisis, it is for you—the women of the state—to make your registration a roll of honor for Pennsylvania.

With the future of all civilization, with human liberty itself in imminent peril the call from the "Front" is for "workers, more workers, and still more workers."

Work will win the war.

Let the women of Pennsylvania by their actions say, "WE WILL NOT SHIRK."

FIVE GAME PRESERVES MAY SOON BE LOCATED

Five of the eight new state game preserves being considered by the state's game authorities may be located in the western part of the state.

The state game preserves are a great source of game for surrounding country and the state now has authority to lease land for such preserves. The only requirement is that it shall be of sufficient size and be isolated so that game may be free at all times. The preserves are closed at all seasons of the year.

The plan is to add eight to the twenty now in existence. About half of these preserves have been set out in the last two or three years and the new ones have been chiefly in northern counties. Western sportsmen have noticed the success attending the preserve in the Ligonier region and have been asking for similar establishments. The places under soneideration are tracts of thousands of acres in Forest, Warren, Somerset, Blair and Cambria counties.

The cost of maintenance of a game preserve, after the installation charges, including wiring and posting of notices, is only $700 a year.

SIGNALS FOR HUNTERS

Signals for deer and other hunters who are in trouble have been prepared by T. B. Wyman, secretary of the Northern Forest Protective association. Large placards have been placed in the woods by Mr. Wyman in order to keep the signals ever before the minds of hunters. They might well be adopted by Clearfield county hunters and thus establish a uniform system.

Here are the signals:

Help—Four shots in quick succession; as 0000.

Injured—Shot, pause, two shots, pause, shot; as 0-00-0.

Man Found—One shot, pause, three quick shots; as 0-000.

Call Heard—Two quick shots, pause, two quick shots; as 00-00.

SUES P. R. R. FOR DAMAGES

A. R. Chase, Esq., on behalf of C. F. and J. W. Hind, entered suit in the Prothonotary's office this morning against the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

The statement filed recites the fact that the plaintiffs own a tract of eighteen acres of timber land in Newburg borough. That on March 31st, 1917, sparks from a locomotive of the defendant company started a fire and burned over the woods entailing a loss of $800.

On April 16, 1917, a second fire was started by the same means and this time destroyed a stump fence which was valued at $200, and they will ask a jury at next term of court to find in their favor to the extent of $1000.

Unless you have increased your fire insurance to cover the present high cost of your property

—$1.50 to $2.50 now buys no more than $1.00 did in 1914.

—Your home, your buildings, have advanced in replacement value.

—Machinery is now higher in cost.

—Fixtures have gone up.

—Merchandise has increased in worth.

You Are Worth More, But Are Less Protected

Eighteenth Regiment Soldiers Buy Bonds

Captain Ayres Recovering From Sick Spell

We received a card today from Captain George L. Ayres, commander of Co. I., of the old Enghteenth Pennsylvania National Guards, which has since been transferred to the 111th U. S. Infantry, and which is now located at Augusta, George.

Capt. Ayres was located in Clearfield last summer as acting Major of the 18th while that regiment was doing guard duty in this region and his many local friends will be pleased to know that he has fully recovered from a severe attack of bronchitis and was discharged from the base hospital Friday last.

A great fight was put up by the friends of the 18th when an order was issued directing that this famous old regiment should be merged with other troops into one of the new U. S. Army regiments. The discussion incident thereto gave the friends of the 18th the opportunity of showing that it was one of the very best regiments in the guard and deserved if any regiment did, to retain its individuality. Accordingly an investigation was ordered and the 18th had no trouble in demonstrating to the "powers that be" their quality and right to retain their organization intact with the result that the order was changed and the Third Regiment of Philadelphia was sacrificed on the altar of the new army regulations.

This recognition of their just claims was naturally very pleasing to the officers and men and in turn to their friends back home.

There are some thirty-five or forty Clearfield county boys in the 18th and we are more than pleased to be able to state that the officers and men of the regiment subscribed for $257,000 worth of Liberty Loan Bonds, Captain Ayres' Co. I taking $18,000 of that amount.

The Kaiser has no settled headquarters. Since the outbreak of the war he has kept continually on the move, rarely staying more than a week at any place, and often only a day. But the place where he may chance to be is the official German headquarters.

"Zooming" means, in the language of the military aviator, just lifting the nose of the machine to surmount obstacles such as trees, and then immediately dropping again when they are passed.
